During the day I called upon the following named cable companies: Commercial Cable, Western Union Telegraph Co., French Cable Co, Anglo-American Cable Co., U. S. Direct Cable Co.

I arranged to have these companies make a search of their files for all cablegrams between January 19th and 24th, sent either by the Chicago Examiner, New York Journal, or New York American to [REDACTED] London, England, and any replies received from said [REDACTED].

The Western Union Telegraph Co. control the Anglo-American and U. S. Direct Cable Companies, as well as its own cable, and the one search will cover all three companies.

Later in the day the Commercial Cable Co. reported to this office that they had succeeded in finding one cablegram, a copy of which was furnished to Div. Supt. The other cable companies will report the result of their search tomorrow morning.

During the day the French Cable Co. reported to me that a search of their files had been made and no cablegrams had been found by them. This search covered from the 19th of January to the 24th inclusive. The Western Union Telegraph Co. reported to me that they had found one cablegram, but could not divulge the contents of same unless called before the Grand Jury. Accordingly I arranged for a representative of the Western Union Telegraph Co. to produce the cablegram at 2 o'clock this afternoon before the Grand Jury. At that hour Div. Supt was present, and the said cablegram was turned over to the U. S. Attorneys office in the Grand Jury room. The contents of this cablegram was communicated to the Chicago office of bureau by Div. Supt.

STATEMENT OF OPERATIONS, EVIDENCE COLLECTED, NAMES AND ADDRESSES OF PERSONS INTERVIEWED, PLACES VISITED, ETC.

At Chicago:

Was called on the long distance telephone this morning by the New York office, in accordance with my telegraphic request of last night. I talked with [redacted] and told him how important it was that the records of the cable companies should be examined, and suggested to Mr. Offley, through [redacted], that forthwith grand jury subpoenas be issued for the cable officials to produce all cablegrams passing from the Chicago Examiner, or allied interests, to the London or Paris correspondent of said paper, whose names I gave him. He stated that he would take my suggestion up immediately with United States Attorney Marshall, and would let me know at once should anything of importance develop, and I informed Asst. U. S. Attorney Stansbury to this effect.

In the afternoon the New York office again called me on the long distance and stated that the records of the Commercial Cable Company had been examined and under date of January 24th was found a cablegram from London, addressed to "The Journal", New York, to be transmitted to Chicago, reading as follows:

"Johnson doesn't know [redacted] whereabouts.

The last he knew of him was when he had fled through Canada. Johnson knows nothing of his dealings. Nobody in Paris knows [redacted]

(Balance of cablegram refers to other matters.)"

This telephone message was, at my request, confirmed by telegraph, so that I could produce the message before the Grand Jury, if desired.

In accordance with instructions received from the Chief, I conferred with Mr. DeWoody, concerning his accounts, which last week the Grand Jury desired me to produce. Mr. DeWoody had no objection whatsoever to having same examined by the jurors, and I then conferred with Mr. Stansbury. He told me that the Grand Jury was entirely satisfied with DeWoody's explanation of his accounts, and suggested that for the purpose of reassuring the Chief and the Department, it would be well to send a telegram containing this information. I therefore wired the Chief as follows:

"Telegram received. Not now necessary to produce accounts. Assistant United States Attorney Stansbury, in charge of investigation, confidentially informs me :Quote, Grand Jury entirely satisfied with DeWoody's explanations of his accounts. End quote. Stansbury suggested this telegram for purpose reassuring you and the Department."

Mr. Stansbury expressed himself as being greatly pleased and gratified with the work of the Bureau on this present investigation.

I called upon the Commercial Cable Co., Western Union Telegraph Co. and French Cable Co. and requested that search of their records be made for all cablegrams coming from foreign correspondence of the Hearst newspapers on January 22d and 23d, and February 5th.

The search of the Western Union Telegraph Co. will also include the Anglo-American Cable Co. and the U. S. Direct Cable Co.

I was informed by these various cable companies that when they last made a search a few days ago that this search included January 22d & 23d, and at the time the search was being made, the party doing the searching was on the lookout for all cablegrams regardless of to whom addressed or the sender, and watch was made for cablegrams containing any matter relative to the Johnson case, and the result of this search has been communicated to this office. In view of this the only date now left to be searched would be February 5th, and the cable companies stated they would apprise this office of the result tomorrow morning.

This morning the Commercial Cable Co., and the French Cable Co. reported to me that a search of their records failed to show any cablegrams for the dates mentioned in subpoena served upon these companies yesterday.

The Western Union Telegraph Co., late this afternoon, reported that a cablegram containing 260 odd words had been found, relative to the Jack Johnson matter. The company, however, refused to turn over the copy, or divulge its contents, other than before the Grand Jury. A clipping from the "Chicago Examiner" had been sent this office by Division Superintendent Bruff, containing a cablegram relative to the Johnson case. I brought the contents of this cablegram to the attention of the Western Union Telegraph Co., and while they would not admit directly ~~it~~ that the copy they had located was the same, they intimated strongly to me that it was. Arranged with the Western Union Co. to produce the said copy on Friday morning, before the Grand Jury. Reported the result of my conversation with the Western Union Co. to Asst. Div. Supt., who communicated the same by telegraph to the Chicago office of Bureau.

A large part of my time today was taken up in conferences with members of the United States Attorney's staff on the above matter. In the early forenoon I received the following telegram from Division Superintendent Offley:

"Telegram received. No record at Postal. Commercial Cable and Western Union refused to make search without subpoena. French Cable search shows nothing for dates given. Will make effort to locate through other cable companies.

(signed) Offley."

As the investigation is now fast drawing to a close, I was requested by the United States Attorney to send the following telegram to Mr. Offley:

"Please advise me immediately relative matter referred to by me in telegram second instant."

This telegram was dictated by Assistant United States Attorney Charles and later, when I took up the matter of the New York Investigation of the Cable Companies with Mr. Stansbury, who is presenting the facts to the Grand Jury, he did not appear to think that the telegrams sent to New York properly presented the subject of inquiry. My telegram of the second instant was prepared entirely by Assistant United States Attorney Charles. Charles also dictated my second telegram to Mr. Offley. At the time the matter was first presented to me, I suggested to Mr. Charles that, in view of the urgency and importance of ascertaining the true facts, the New York Office should be advised to have subpoenas duces tecum issued for all the Cable Companies in New York to produce all messages in any way relating to the investigation. Mr. Charles did not agree with me as to the necessity of incorporating a suggestion of this nature in the telegram, therefore, it was omitted. In the afternoon, however, Mr. Stansbury, in charge of the investigation, was quite strongly of the opinion that my suggestion should have been adopted, and it was upon his urgent request that I attempted to get into communication with Division Superintendent Offley by telephone.

Owing to Mr. Offley's absence from the Office, I was unable to reach him and I later wired for him to call me on the long distance telephone before ten o'clock tomorrow.

Late at night the following telegram from the Chief was phoned to me at my home:

"Letter second regarding accounts DeWoody received. Desire give Grand Jury all information possible, which will not prejudice any prosecution or violate confidences any informants, etc. Please go over accounts DeWoody with him and Wilkerson and advise whether anything contained therein should not be made known Grand Jury.

I will tomorrow confer with Mr. Stansbury, Assistant United States Attorney, and ascertain whether he wishes me to appear before that body with Mr. DeWoody's accounts, or for any other purpose, and will wire the Chief the result of such conference.

Asst. U. S. He also stated that the officers of the Chicago Examiner claim to have a leased wire between New York and Chicago, and for this reason the messages did not pass over the Western Union or Postal commercial wires. Even if this be so the messages, if existent, should be in the files of one of the cable companies at New York.

TITLE AND OFFENSE CHARGED OR NATURE OF MATTER UNDER INVESTIGATION:
RE: ALLEGED BRIBERY OF GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS IN CONNECTION WITH ESCAPE OF JOHN ARTHUR JOHNSON, Convicted of Violation of Mann Act.

SYNOPSIS OF OPERATIONS, EVIDENCE COLLECTED, NAMES AND ADDRESSES OF PERSONS INTERVIEWED, PLACES VISITED, ETC.:
At Chicago, Ill.

The Chicago Examiner in its issue of January 19, 1914 published an article entitled "SIX FEDERAL OFFICIALS HERE FACE EXPOSURE", alleging payment of money to government officials by [REDACTED] in connection with the flight of Jack Johnson after conviction of violation of the Mann Act, and since then the "Examiner" has published articles and fac-similes of checks purporting to be made payable to former Assistant U. S. Attorney's [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] and Assistant U. S. Attorney H. A. Parkin, also U. S. Commissioner Mark A. Foote and drawn by [REDACTED]. In statements credited to the officials named, it is claimed these payments were made either as loans or for professional services. Former Division Superintendent DeWeedy is also named in the charges but not as having received money from [REDACTED]. The articles also charge that Jack Johnson conferred with or called on some high, unnamed government official the day prior to his departure for Europe and various other charges of a vicious nature.

In connection herewith it may be well to state that [REDACTED] has been a fugitive from the State Courts for over a month, he having fled to parts unknown after his private bank was found to be without funds and a receiver appointed for the institution, and since then [REDACTED] it is claimed, has been endeavoring to recover monies, by threats or otherwise, said to be due [REDACTED] for loans or paid by him to officials for unlawful purposes. The documentary evidence covering transactions with the officials is said to have been turned over to United States Attorney Wilkerson.

It being the desire of Mr. Wilkerson to have the Grand Jury investigate the charges, Agent was called into conference with Division Superintendent Brunt, Assistant U. S. Attorney's Childs and Stansbury, and Mr. DeWeedy with a view to presenting the evidence to the Grand Jury, and Agent later testified before that body. [REDACTED] was a professional bondsman who failed to qualify as surety on Jack Johnson's bond at time of his arrest.

My Dear Bielaski:-

Your favor of the 15th. inst. received, and in reply I beg to advise you that the data referred to is a number of leads, which if carefully run out will no doubt develop some facts relative to DeWoody's conduct during the past year. One of the things I have in mind is a money consideration in the Johnson Case. Another is his association with certain so-called "Vice Leaders", and still another is his association with women of questionable character.

In my mind the only way that this matter could be successfully handled is to assign some one to run it out, and I would place him in touch with people who know something about the facts I refer to. I have been asked several times to work up this case for certain newspapers, as well as others, but have declined for the reason that I feared that there would be a cry of revenge raised, as I understand that he has told a number of people that he fired me because I was crooked.

Since I took up the position of Inspector of Moral Conditions, for the city of Chicago, I have heard a number of rumors that he was protecting certain people in the old Vice District. Only yesterday I was told that he and Meyers covered up on a Mann Act violation. I have evidence that there was a violation, and I understand that your records show that an investigation was started, but was dropped about three days after one of those accused made the statement that they could reach DeWoody. At any rate it bears investigation, in my mind, for I know that I would investigate if such a rumor was afloat regarding any of my men.

If you cannot, or do not care, to send some one here on this matter, advise me and I will do the best I can by submitting my leads to you in a letter. You of course realize that when writing a man leaves out certain details that sometimes are very valuable to the one making the investigation.

Very truly yours,

W. C. Dannenberg

LEWINSOHN GRAND JURY WILL APPEAL TO WILSON

Members Vote to Report Facts in Federal Scandal Directly to Washington Without Consulting District Attorney Wilkerson.

Missing Bondsman Opens Negotiations to Return and Testify
Against United States Officials;
His Son Is Put on the Stand.

The federal scandal in Chicago will be brought to the attention of President Wilson.

The grand jury now investigating charges against government officials here voted yesterday to report direct to Washington, without consulting either District Attorney Wilkerson or Judge Ladd.

If the jurors are dissatisfied in their plans, they intend to report "no indictments," proceed after their discharge, and call on Attorney General McCreynolds to ask the nation's chief executive to take summary action on their report, which will include all the substantial testimony of those who follow the lead.

Re: JOHN ARTHUR JOHNSON, alias
Jack Johnson;
WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC ACT.

John Arthur Johnson, a powerfully built negro pugilist, who was better known to the public as Jack Johnson, became the heavyweight champion of the world on July 4, 1910, by defeating James J. Jeffries, at Reno, Nevada. This fight had eliminated a number of successful fights by Johnson, including the defeat of Al Keffau at San Francisco on September 9, 1909, and Stanley Ketchel at the same place on October 14, 1909.

Following the defeat of Jeffries, Johnson toured the north and east in the United States, appearing in Vanderbille. He had a weakness for white prostitutes and carried two or three of them with him while traveling about the country. As early as September, 1909, when he was training at San Francisco, for his fight with Al Keffau and later with Stanley Ketchel at the same place, he had with him Etta Duryea, [redacted] and one [redacted] all white women. Following these fights he took these women with him to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Boston, Massachusetts; Chicago, Illinois, and many other places. He married one of these prostitutes, Etta Duryea, early in 1910, but despite this marriage continued to include [redacted] and [redacted] in his party when traveling with his wife. He beat these white women unmercifully whenever he became angry. Etta Duryea when he married as above stated, was beaten so badly by him at the Park Theater in Chicago, Illinois, that she had to be taken to a hospital for treatment where she remained for some time. [redacted] she later was the victim in a white slave case in which Johnson was the subject, testified at the trial that Johnson beat her on an average of once a week, frequently blinding her eyes, and that on one occasion he beat her with an automobile wrench until her body was black and blue and she had to remain in bed for a time. [redacted] was another victim of his brutality, but she finally quit him, refused, and later married a hard working farmer named Peterson at Portland, Oregon.

In the summer of 1911 he became acquainted with a white girl named [redacted] eighteen years of age, who had recently come from Minneapolis to Chicago. This girl was in his company a great deal and he introduced her as his stenographer although it is highly probable that she never worked for him in this capacity. Johnson opened a black and tan cafe at Chicago, Illinois, on July 19, 1911. This cafe was located at 41 West First Street, and was called the Cafe de Champion, and Johnson held court each evening at this cafe where slumming parties of white people and local celebrities were greeted by him. Mrs. Jack Johnson, the former Etta Duryea, resided in the living quarters over the cafe and was in touch with Johnson's affairs with white women, particularly with [redacted] who has been mentioned above, and on September 12, 1911, Johnson's white wife, Etta, shot and killed herself in her apartment. It was believed she was prompted to take her life because of jealousy of [redacted] and Johnson's treatment of her.

Following the death of his wife, Johnson continued his affairs with [redacted]. His affairs were attracting so much attention that the Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, became interested in the matter and began an investigation of his activities, and the then United States Attorney James E. Wilkerson, now United States District Judge, decided to prosecute if sufficient evidence to show a violation of the White Slave Traffic Act was obtained. Johnson learned that Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were gathering evidence against him and became fearful that his affair with [redacted] was the cause of Federal activities, so he removed her from [redacted]. The Bureau after a search located [redacted] one of the white prostitutes who traveled with Johnson in 1909, 1910, and 1911, who was then an inmate of a house of prostitution in what was then known as Hooker's division in Washington, D. C. At that time she had been discarded by Johnson and felt bitter toward him. She was brought to Chicago, Illinois, and testified before the Federal Grand Jury. On April 20, 1911, a Federal Grand Jury at Chicago, Illinois, indicted Johnson, charging him with transportation and aiding in the transportation of [redacted] from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to Chicago, Illinois, on October 11, 1910. The indictment contained ten counts, counts 1, 2, 3, 4, 7 and 9 charging transportation for an immoral purpose, to wit, for the purpose of prostitution, and counts 5, 6 and 10 charging immoral purpose, to wit, for purpose of having unlawful sexual intercourse with her. Following a not guilty plea, Johnson was placed on trial on May 5, 1911, before Federal Judge Carpenter.

[redacted] testified that in April, 1909, while she was an inmate of the Everleigh Club, a house of prostitution at Chicago, Illinois, Johnson came in and talked with her requesting her to meet him the following day at the house of one Marshall, a negro; that she met him at the appointed place where she had sexual relations with him. She then began to accompany him on various trips which he took to various places in the country. Occasionally Etta Dwyer and [redacted] had been with him, all occupying about the same relative relationship, and all white women. [redacted] further testified that following Johnson's fight with Stanley Ketchel in the fall of 1909, she had, as had Etta Dwyer, whom he later married, and [redacted], been taken by Johnson to Boston, Massachusetts, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and many other places; that in October 1910, he had suggested to her that she open a house of prostitution of her own and promised to furnish the place for her; that shortly after this conversation she left him and became an inmate of a sporting house at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, operated by two sisters on Second Street; that one evening prior to October 15, 1910, one of these sisters informed her that she had a long distance call for her; that she answered the phone and found that it was Johnson; that after the conversation with Johnson she was told to pack up and leave by this sister; that she either telephoned or wired Johnson who was in some town in Pennsylvania, telling him of her predicament, at which time he replied by sending her $100.00 by Postal Telegraph, with a message directing her to go to Chicago and remain at a designated place until he came to Chicago later, signing the telegram "Jack"; that she cashed the money order at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, in the presence of her colored maid, and with the proceeds paid for her fare to Chicago, taking [redacted] the said colored maid with her; that the travel was made via Pennsylvania Railroad, and upon arriving in Chicago she went to the designated place as Johnson had instructed. Johnson arrived in Chicago two or three days later.

She rented an apartment on Wabash Avenue, the rent being $15.00 per month, using the name of [redacted] when engaging this apartment. She informed Johnson of the renting of the place, whereupon he handed her between $150.00 and $200.00 to pay the rent and make a deposit with the electric light and gas companies and other expenses.

[redacted] further testified that Johnson gave her a card of introduction to a furniture dealer; that she selected furniture and other household goods in the amount of $1150.00; that Johnson paid this furniture dealer in person the sum of $750.00 with a check, and later handed her a check for the balance which she gave to this furniture dealer; that she opened her apartment as a sporting house and secured the services of two women as inmates; that she herself also engaged in prostitution; that Johnson was a frequent visitor to her apartment and had sexual relations with her; that she kept her apartment open until February 1911, when she closed it since it was not a profitable venture. She further testified that after closing this apartment she followed Johnson to various points in the north and east where she met him by arrangement and finally they separated.

One of the sisters, above mentioned, who operated a house of prostitution on Second Street in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, testified that [redacted] using the name [redacted] was an inmate of her house; that one evening in October, 1910, she was informed by telephone by a male voice that "This is Jack Johnson, champion of the world and I want a clear wife". She inquired what he wanted and was told he wanted to talk to [redacted]. She called [redacted] to the phone and after the latter had finished talking to the [redacted] she asked [redacted] if the man calling was the negro fighter; that [redacted] told her it was, whereupon she informed [redacted] she would not keep any girl who associated with negroes and that she would have to leave at once.

At the trial testimony from various other witnesses was used by the Government to corroborate the testimony of [redacted] and [redacted] Hattie Petrovich, alias Australian Hattie, testified as to the association of herself, [redacted] and Etta Dwyer with Johnson in these trips about the country, whom he kept all three of the girls with him, and his ill-treatment of them.

On May 11, 1913, the defendant was found guilty. On July 4, 1913, a motion for a new trial was overruled and a sentence of one year and one day in the Hellet State Penitentiary and a fine of $1,000.00 was imposed by Judge George A. Carpenter. A stay of execution of 90 days was granted Johnson for the purpose of filing a bill of exceptions and the defendant was admitted to bail in the sum of $15,000.00. On June 18, 1913 the United States Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, was designated as the place of confinement.

An appeal was taken in the Circuit Court of Appeals and docketed there on June 23, 1913. The appeal was heard January 7, 1914 and on April 14, 1914, an opinion was handed down by Judge Baker, upholding the judgment of the lower court in part and overruling it in part in the following language:

"Inasmuch as the sentence is based on two sets of counts jointly the judgment is reversed for re-sentence on the sexual intercourse counts and for retrial of the prostitution counts if the Government has additional evidence to support them".

The Government immediately filed a petition for re-hearing which was granted, after which the court adhered to the opinion previously rendered and its mandate was filed in the lower court, July 31, 1914. The defendant was notified to appear August 7, 1914.

On August 7, 1914, the trial on the prostitution counts was set for October 8, 1914, and new bond in the sum of $15,000.00 was ordered within twenty days. On October 8, 1914, when the case was called, the defendant failed to appear, whereupon a proceeding was instituted by the United States against the defendant, and a conditional judgment was entered against Johnson and his bondsmen. On November 18, 1914, the above judgment was made final and it was subsequently paid, evidently with interest, in three installments as follows: September 7, 1915, $4,844.00; December 18, 1915, $2,150.00; June 12, 1917, $8,372.04.

Following the conviction Johnson fled to France and on June 14, 1914, at Paris, defeated Frank Moran. He went to Cuba later and on April 8, 1915, he was defeated by Jess Willard in twenty-six rounds at Marianna, losing by this fight the championship of the world. He then returned to France where as a defeated champion he was no longer the drawing card he had been. His income dwindled and finally he secured a passport at Madrid, Spain, for his return to the United States, and arrived at Havana, Cuba, on March 1, 1919. He then proceeded to Mexico where he gave boxing exhibitions and was in and out of Tia Juana, Mexico, his movements being noted by Federal Bureau of Investigation Agents, who were prepared to arrest him if he came over into the United States. On July 9, 1920, Johnson called the Los Angeles, California, Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation by telephone and expressed a desire to surrender. He stated, however, that he would surrender only on condition that he was not to be placed under arrest, would be taken at once to Chicago, Illinois, and would not be handcuffed on the trip to that place or subjected to any indignities. The Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to whom he made the statement, informed him that he was a fugitive from justice; that if he crossed the border into the United States he would be apprehended, and that the procedure following his arrest would be strictly in accordance with the law.

On July 20, 1920, Johnson, surrendered at Tia Juana, Mexico, to the Sheriff of Los Angeles, California, and accompanied the Sheriff to the Mexican border, where Johnson was turned over to a Deputy United States Marshal and a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Johnson thereafter being placed in the County Jail at Los Angeles, California.

On July 21, 1920, Johnson was brought before the United States District Judge at Los Angeles, California, who ordered Johnson removed to Chicago, Illinois. He left Los Angeles on July 22, 1920 for Chicago, where he was delivered to the United States Marshal at that place.

On September 14, 1920, Johnson was brought before United States District Judge George A. Carpenter and re-sentenced to serve a year and a day at the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, and pay a fine of $1,000.00. On the same date a nolle prosequi was entered as to counts 1, 2, 3, 4, 7 and 8, which were the prostitution counts in the indictment. On September 19, 1920, Johnson was delivered to the Warden of the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, and on July 18, 1921, the fine of $1,000.00 was paid by the defendant.

The records of the Identification Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation reflect no other criminal record for Johnson other than his imprisonment in the United States Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, in connection with this case. These records indicate that he was received at the United States Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kansas, on September 19, 1920, and was released therefrom on July 9, 1921, upon expiration of his sentence.
